

Extend your situational awareness to protect places

Protected Places Program add-on for CommandCentral Aware

Many businesses recognize that sharing information about their location with public safety ahead of an emergency could make a big difference in the safety of their community. The challenge is setting up the right technology at their location to support a more informed emergency response.

Protected Places Program

The Protected Places Program is a technology partnership that connects public safety agencies with local businesses to provide real-time visibility and critical information during incidents.

→ Community insights, in real time

Community partners create a profile to share critical details including emergency contacts, floor plans and security camera information. Access this information in real time from your command center.

→ Accelerate investigations with registered cameras

Community partners can share the exact location and details of their security cameras. Access registered camera owner information and the camera locations from the CommandCentral Aware map, alongside radio, 9-1-1 and incident information.

→ Emergency visibility through partnership

Help your partners help you by connecting their security cameras for real-time visibility during an emergency. There's no need to rip and replace cameras; partners can connect a supported video system or install a Safety Hub. Partners choose which camera feeds to share (e.g., exterior only), and can view camera logs to see when video has been accessed.

Key features
