The importance of community engagement

Make deposits in the bank of community trust

Building strong communities is like making small deposits into a trust bank.

Each act of engagement builds your capital, and over time, that investment pays off in resilience, loyalty and real impact.

Strategic engagement playbook

Play 1: Empower through education

Play 2: Community branding

Play 3: Strategic partnerships

Play 4: Build community trust

Play 5: Execute public launch

Play 6: Sustain momentum

Play 1:

Empower through education

Before your public launch, ensure your internal staff is aware of your alert system, how to sign-up, and the benefits of the program.

1. Conduct a team meeting to showcase the alert system, it's features, and then follow with a call to action to sign-up.
2. Identify a dedicated Community Engagement Representative to attend community events to educate your residents.

Play 2:

Community Branding

Build a brand that your community trusts:

Brand recognition

Branding starts with a unique identity, a distinguished logo, or name that is commonly associated with your safety system.

We suggest NOT calling it Rave Alert.

Keyword optimization

Ease of Use is a great way to get quick sign-ups. Consider an relatable hashtag keyword opt-in with a call to action to sign-up.

For example: #OBXAlerts

Play 3:

Strategic partnership: Identify stakeholders and community ambassadors

The success of Rave Alert hinges on strong partnerships.

Identify Key Stakeholders

Engage local leaders, youth groups, business associations, tourism committees, and other relevant groups to gather diverse perspectives and foster a collaborative approach. This ensures you are working with target audiences.

Empower Community Ambassadors

Community ambassadors serve as crucial links between the Alert sign-up experience and the community it aims to support. They increase awareness, build trust, and encourage participation by sharing their own experiences and insights.

Play 4:

Building community trust through engagement and marketing

Connect Face-to-Face

In-person events like workshops and safety fairs allow you to hand out informational flyers about your alert system.

Additionally, showcasing easy ways to sign-up through captive audience marketing, such as jumbotrons at events or restroom stalls with an easy to download QR code.

Expand Your Reach

Virtual events and social media platforms broaden accessibility and engagement. Share updates, success stories, and resources.

Our social media best practices guide highlights ways to control algorithms, along with recommended strategies to support engagement and drive adoption.

Interactive Engagement

At all events, provide a staffed information booth to answer questions, and assist with sign-ups.

Have a pull-up banner at your booth to grab the attention of attendees.

Be Patient and Consistent

The average target audience needs to hear a message 3+ times to fully understand it.

Play 4: (continued)

Building community trust through engagement and marketing

Power in Partnerships

Have you engaged your local education partners?

Leverage a partnership with your local private and public schools and incentivize them to participate.

Offer to host a “movie under the stars” to the school district with the largest number of sign-ups.

Captive Audience Marketing

Captive audience marketing leverages the attention of users who are already engaged with a particular platform or content, making it a powerful strategy for app adoption.

Think: Jumbotrons, Restroom Stalls, Know Before You Go Event Emails

Infrastructure Promotion

Leverage transportation partners for mobile advertising.

This includes bus advertising, partnerships with your local taxi agency, and digital advertising at transit stations (higher ed, public bus stops, train stations).

Website Integration

Integrate Alert promotion into your organization’s website.

Adding a weblink button to your landing page drives additional traffic based on the needs of your community.
